Subject: Urgent Call for Unity Among Independent Parties and Presidential Aspirants for the 2024 Elections

Dear Mer. Cudjoe and Mr. Domelevo,

I am writing to both of you, recognising your esteemed roles and influential positions within the Ghanaian political landscape, to address a critical matter concerning the upcoming 2024 Presidential and Parliamentary elections in the country.

As you may be aware, numerous parties or independent presidential candidates have made announcements to contest in the Dec 2024 elections. These clearly suggest to me that our dear country will be doomed to the same old political mistakes which have effectively destroyed the country. We cannot easily let go of our egoist tendencies and unite under one umbrella and attempt to dislodge the duopoly. Everybody wants to be a flag bearer at all cost. I know I have left it rather late but I think it is better late than never. It is definitely in the eleventh hour but I wish to call on you to assist us.

As you are well aware, the political climate in Ghana has been dominated by the New Patriotic Party (NPP) and the National Democratic Congress (NDC) for the past 32 years. Despite their promises and campaigns, these parties have failed to address the pressing needs of the Ghanaian people and have been responsible for the numerous challenges our nation faces today.

In light of the above, it is imperative that we explore all possible avenues to bring about meaningful change. Independent parties and presidential aspirants, though individually well-intentioned and capable, currently lack the resources and collective strength necessary to challenge the entrenched dominance of the NPP and NDC effectively.

The need for transformation has never been more pressing, and we firmly believe that you are uniquely positioned to reach out to the listed parties and request them to come under one umbrella for the sake of our nation's future.

Throughout your esteemed career, you have epitomized integrity, dedication, and a steadfast commitment to the betterment of our society. Your unwavering stance against corruption and your tireless efforts to uphold the principles of transparency and accountability have earned you the respect and admiration of countless Ghanaians.

My position is compromised in the sense that I belong to one of these numerous parties.

As Ghana grapples with the aftermath of years of mismanagement and neglect, the people have turned their hopeful eyes towards people like yourself – individuals of unparalleled integrity and vision, who possess the technical skills and moral fortitude necessary to navigate our nation towards prosperity.

There is a reason why so many are clamouring for your intervention at this time. As the saying goes, sometimes history finds the right person for the right time. Your acceptance of this clarion call will not only mark the beginning of a new chapter for our nation but also ignite a beacon of hope that will inspire generations to come. Together, we can build a Ghana that is prosperous, equitable, and inclusive – a Ghana that we can all be proud to call home.

On the basis of this, I strongly appeal to both of you to initiate contact with the listed independent parties and presidential aspirants in Ghana to propose a unified strategy.

The goal here is to bring these entities together under a common banner to contest the 2024 elections. I am not asking you to become our flag bearer or anything of the sort but to reach out to the listed parties/groups and facilitate this union. By uniting, we can create a formidable alternative to the traditional parties, offering a credible and compelling choice to the Ghanaian electorate.

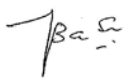

The immediate formation of a coalition will not only enhance our chances of securing a significant electoral victory but also demonstrate to the people of Ghana that there is a viable and unified alternative to the status quo. This coalition should focus on consolidating resources, harmonizing campaign strategies, and presenting a united front to the electorate.

Please consider the urgency of this appeal and the potential impact of such unity. The time to act is now, and the future of our nation depends on the collective efforts of all stakeholders who seek genuine change.

I eagerly await your response and stand ready to offer our unwavering support as you embark on this monumental journey to serve our appeal to these parties/independent presidential aspirants to come under a single umbrella urgently for the benefit of our nation.

Thank you for your attention to this critical matter. I look forward to your positive response and the steps you will take to facilitate this necessary coalition.

Yours sincerely,

J Y Badu Australia
